Apartments scheduled to replace Phi Sig house

By STEVE SMITH
Campus editor

Demolition of the former Phi Sigma Kappa fraternity house began Monday morning, preparing the property for an estimated $1 million apartment complex scheduled for completion by mid-August.

About 10 Phi Sigma Kappa members watched Monday afternoon as a bulldozer smashed the cement walls of their former fraternity house located at 1509 S. Second St.

Phi Sigma Kappa member John Emporer summed up the feelings of those present to witness the demolition, which began at about 8 a.m. Monday. "The house may be gone, but the song remains the same."

Sophomore Steve Siciliano, also a member of the now defunct fraternity, said he had been at the site since the demolition began and said he would remain "until he stops," pointing at the bulldozer as the machine took another bite out of the building.

"It's just a shame," driver of the bulldozer George Cobble said. "It used to be such a nice building."

The job should be completed in "a couple of days depending on how the weather does," said Mike Cobble, an employee of Ne-Co Asphalt Co., the Charleston based company responsible for the demolition of the building.

Mike Cobble said demolition was (See APARTMENTS, page 7)

City files counter suit Dam construction not up to par

By STUART TART
Staff writer

The city of Charleston will file a counter-claim Tuesday in response to a lawsuit filed against the city by the construction company that built the cofferdam at Lake Charleston, city attorney Tony Sunderman said Monday.

A.J. Walker Construction Co. of Mattoon filed a suit last week claiming the city refuses to pay $20,266 still owed for the cofferdam's construction.

The city claims A.J. Walker did not build the dam to the engineering specifications in the bid proposal and will ask for $23,000 that has been spent so far on damage caused by the leak that developed in the dam Oct. 5, about a week after the project's completion.

The cofferdam is a temporary emergency restraint which holds back water from the spillway and allows workers access to replace the Lake Charleston spillway which ruptured in November 1985.

The Charleston City Council approved a bid to the A.J. Walker Construction Company for $216,385 on Aug. 24, 1986, to build the cofferdam, which also enables water to be directly pumped from the Embarras River into the side-channel reservoir.

The cofferdam was scheduled to be finished Sept. 30, 1986, but was finished a few days ahead of time.

The cofferdam first ruptured Oct. 5. A second hole appeared Oct. 6. Crews worked to fill the leaks with 300 to 400 cubic yards of clay and small rocks.

"We believe the evidence will show A.J. Walker Construction Co. failed to build (the cofferdam) to specifications," Sunderman said. "We'll want to recover what we paid out, which is about $23,000."

Sunderman said the $23,000 figure could increase, depending on whether more repairs are necessary.

A.J. Walker filed its suit Friday. The $20,266 outstanding balance is about 10 percent of the $216,384 project cost. The 10 percent was to be paid once the project was inspected and approved by the city, Sunderman said.

"I don't know that the city will inspect or approve the construction at all until the lawsuit is completed," he said.

The city has not been paid the outstanding balance on the construction, because it is about the same as the cost of the repairs made after the leak, he said.

"We want them to pay for the cost of the repairs," he said.

Representatives of the A.J. Walker Co. could not be reached for comment Monday.

Class schedules delayed

By JEFF McCOMBS
Staff writer

Eastern students who had planned on registering for fall classes on Monday or Tuesday found one important item missing: the registration course schedule.

The schedule, which is a listing of all courses being offered next semester, normally is printed and distributed in The Daily Eastern News prior to the start of fall pre-registration. However, a delay in the completion of the schedule this semester prevented the schedule from being distributed before the start of pre-registration.

Edgar Schick, vice president for academic affairs, said his office sets a goal to have the schedule completed and tries to come as close to that goal as it can.

Schick said they have now set a goal for the schedule to come out on Wednesday. The registration deadline, April 10, is expected to remain the same despite the delay.

"There is just so much time that we can get it (schedule) done," Schick said. "It takes months and months and months to prepare."

Schick also said that human conditions got involved, such as people getting sick, which slowed the process down.

Schick said that four stages must be gone through to complete the class schedule.

First is getting the faculty staffing plan, Schick said. Secondly, the academic department has to review how the schedule and classes fit into the academic plan. Thirdly, the schedule goes to the dean and then classrooms must be figured out.

And the final step to getting the schedule out is having it printed, Schick added.

"It is an ongoing process," Schick said of the preparation of the schedule. "We have been working on it for months and months."

Cal Campbell, director of academic assistance which advises many freshman and sophomores, said his office ran into little difficulty with the delay in scheduling.

"We received the schedule late Friday afternoon," Campbell said. "But we did not have it for Thursday. It did not affect the nearly 3,000 students that we advise."

About 104 students registered with the eight academic assistance counselors on Thursday without the class schedule, but Campbell said that they contacted the deans of the academic departments and made sure the classes that students chose were going to be offered.

"We went ahead and turned them in (to registration) so they have priority," Campbell said of those who registered Thursday and a few who registered early on Friday. "There is no hurry on that (getting the times)."

State/Nation/WorldFugitive captured in California

LOS ANGELES—Two cowboys have been arrested on charges of harboring Claude Dallas Jr., the fugitive killer of two game wardens who was recaptured after roaming in disguise from Oregon to Mexico for nearly a year, the FBI said Monday.

Richard T. Bretzing, the FBI chief in Los Angeles, said authorities succeeded in catching up with the trapper, who fled the Idaho State Penitentiary last March 30, because they knew he had a past association with one of the cowboys and kept him under surveillance.

Dallas, who had vowed not to be taken alive and was listed as one of the FBI's 10 Most Wanted fugitives, was arrested unarmed on Sunday afternoon, as he left a convenience store carrying groceries in Riverside, 50 miles east of Los Angeles. Bretzing said .38 caliber ammunition was among the items recovered from his motel room.

U.S. Magistrate Lek von Kaesborg denied bail for Dallas at a pending extradition to Idaho.

Dallas, 36, was using the alias Al Schrank when arrested and denied his identity until it was confirmed by fingerprints, said FBI spokesman Jim Neilson.

He also had apparently attempted to alter his appearance from the bearded, bespectacled man shown in widely-distributed photographs, Bretzing said.

North files suit against legality of independent counsel

WASHINGTON (AP)—A federal judge, taking unusually quick action, began hearing oral arguments Monday in Lt. Col. Oliver North's challenge to the legal standing of the independent counsel looking into the Iran-Contra affair.

Meanwhile, the president's daughter called for the court-martial of North and former National Security Adviser John Poindexter, and a member of the Senate Iran-Contra panel said grants of immunity to North and Poindexter could come soon though other officials said it was too soon.

Also on Monday one of the Nicaraguan Contras' leaders, Arturo Cruz, resigned his post as a director of the United Nicaraguan Opposition, his son said. Arturo Cruz Jr. gave no details other than to say his father was fed up with the "whole mentality" of the rebel movement.

The afternoon court arguments came after the independent Counsel, Lawrence Walsh, filed a court brief asking U.S. District Court Judge Barrington Parker to dismiss a second lawsuit by North, calling it a "desperate" effort to derail a criminal investigation.

"Unable to halt the investigation with the force of his arguments, he should not be permitted to do so by the mere force—and volume—of his rapidly-proliferating lawsuits," Walsh wrote in response to a suit filed by North's attorneys on Friday.

Walsh, noting that the suit was the second challenge to his investigation in 11 days, said North "continued and expands his determined effort to disrupt an ongoing criminal investigation."

North, the former National Security Council aide who was involved in the arms sales to Iran and efforts to channel money to the Nicaraguan Contras, first challenged the legitimacy of Walsh's probe on Feb. 24, arguing that the law under which it was begun, the Ethics in Government Act, was unconstitutional.

Last week Attorney General Edwin Meese III, in an effort to safeguard the investigation, directed Walsh also to proceed under the authority of the attorney general.

However, North filed a second challenge on Friday.

Lecture exposes movie seduction

Milt Tatelman, also known as the "mad-man adman," will speak about advertising and movies at a University Board-sponsored lecture at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the Union Grand Ballroom.

William Heilenbach, UB lecture coordinator, said Tatelman's lecture, "Seduced at the Movies," will focus on movies produced in Hollywood, and how advertisers get their products into the movies.

Heilenbach said Tatelman, who is a Hollywood advertising agent, will also talk about sneak previews and how they entice people to go see movies that are actually terrible. "During his lecture, he will probably tell the audience about some newly released movies to avoid," Heilenbach said.

"He will also make some predictions for the Oscar's," he said. In addition to making some predictions, Tatelman will give the audience an idea of what the atmosphere is like backstage at the Oscar Award presentations.

Heilenbach said Tatelman's lecture takes a serious note when examining advertising techniques, but it also has a funny note by talking about the Hollywood movie stars.

"He is an excellent speaker and real crowd-pleaser," Heilenbach added.

Tickets for the lecture are $3 for the public and $1 for students. They are available at the Union Box Office.

President Rives plans to address university affairs

By JEFF BRITT
Staff writer

In his annual State of the University address Tuesday, Eastern President Stanley Rives will speak on academic affairs, fiscal affairs and student affairs.

"It's a general overview of the entire university—where it is and where it's going," said Harry Read, director of information and publications.

He'll include in his address topics regarding budget recommendations and enrollment. "He is going to talk about what the missions and goals of the university are," Read said.

Rives stated last week that a new vice president for academic affairs has been selected and notified. The candidate has accepted the offer, however, the announcement of the new VPAA is pending approval by the Board of Governors.

The new candidate will replace the current VPAA Edgar Schick. Schick has accepted a job as executive director of the Board of Trustees of Maryland State universities and colleges.

The BOG will hold a special phone conference at 8:30 a.m. Thursday to discuss the approval of the new VPAA.

Rives, who was attending a committee meeting of the Blue Ribbon Task Force on Teacher Education, was unavailable for comment Monday. Rives is a member of the Task Force which is working with the state superintendent on public instruction.

The Faculty Senate and the Council on Teacher Education have cancelled their regular Tuesday meetings in order to attend Rive's address.

The Senate will meet again at 2 p.m. on March 17. The COTE has scheduled its next meeting for April 7.

Correction

It was incorrectly reported in The Daily Eastern News that there were 2,296 economics majors. Economics department chair Ahmad Murad said, "There are about 240 economics majors." The number of students enrolled in economics classes the fall semester of 1986 is 2,296. The News regrets the error.

Coleman Hall project must stay priority

Getting the Lumpkin College of Business under one roof has become a game of sorts with "wait 'til next time" as its motto.

The proposed Coleman expansion has to overcome another in what seems like a long line of obstacles now that it is not specifically mentioned in Gov. James Thompson's budget for the year. But with the optimism that officials are showing the hurdle may be small.

The funds for building the Coleman addition may come from the general operating budget. The budget did not include funds for the addition under the Build Illinois program.

State Rep. Mike Weaver, who is a former Eastern marketing instructor, has said the reason funding was not in the Build Illinois program was because chances of getting the necessary money from the program were thin.

Hopefully, this will not hurt the chances of the project actually getting underway and further put off the badly needed project another year. The expansion must stay a priority with legislators.

The proposal has been on Eastern's priority list since former Eastern President Daniel Marvin campaigned for it. Eastern's commitment to the project has been reaffirmed with the recent million dollar donation by the R. A. Lumpkin Foundation of Mattoon.

The need to house the business school under one roof is apparent to any student or teacher who must walk across campus to get to classrooms.

Eastern President Stanley Rives indicated when presenting the plan to the Illinois Board of Higher Education for approval that the administration is willing to fight for the project. "If they turn it down again, we will keep proposing it," he said. "We clearly need it now."

We hope this attitude will prevail if, once again, the necessary is not available.

Remembering the lust to be older

Recently having reached and achieved the void of 22 years of age, I've got to wonder.

Wonder what?

Fair question.

I wonder why I didn't realize there were birthday's after 21.

Seems like a lot of time is spent trying to obtain the pinnacle of life, youthful folly and physical ripeness. In other words everyone looks forward to turning 21.

Seems like a lot of time is spent maintaining the pinnacle of life, youthful folly and physical ripeness. In other words nobody wants to turn 30.

I think the first time I was conscious of wishing my life away was at my fifth birthday party.

John with the braces was going to be there. He was an older man. Perhaps 12 years of age. He was my first crush. Isn't that special.

The party was the usual. Big chocolate cake, pastel mints, cute party favors. I can remember to this day the games that we played. Musical chairs, pin the tail on the donkey and hide and seek.

I was togged out in my party best. Little pink dress with bunches of ruffles, miles of lace and a rash of rosebuds. Little pink leotards with the lace sewn to the bottom. Little black patent leather shoes. Little cultivated curls dotting my hair. I was hot.

And yet it wasn't enough. I wanted to be a whole decade old instead of just half.

That wasn't the end. When I was 10 I couldn't wait to be 13. When I was 13 I couldn't wait to be 16. When I was 16 I couldn't wait to be 18. When I was 18 I couldn't wait to be 21.

A.L.
Landers

Oh there were reasons for the lust after advancing years. When you turn 13 you become a teen and get to shave your legs and use a little mascara.

When you turn 16 you get your freedom in form of a driver's license and the family car.

When you turn 18 it's the end of high school the brink, or so I thought, of adulthood.

When you turn 21 you're legal. You can do without fear. You can sign for your own loans. You can officially say you have reached adult status. No matter whether you are emotionally and intellectually suited for the real world is objectionable. However, it can be assumed.

But, what do you hope for after 21?

30? I don't think so. It seems like people stop anticipating and start dreading the approaching year around about 22.

Oh sure there are those special somebodies who embrace life whole-heartedly each and every day. But those are the fortunate few.

Everyone else is looking for crow's feet around their eyes. For that first gray hair littering their hair. For the favorite songs of their youth to become golden oldies.

Anyway, back to the original premise. I wonder why I didn't realize there were birthdays after 21.

I bet it's because people just don't talk about it. Remember when you were young and spent hours speculating with your friends about what it would be like to be older.

People just stop paying attention after 21. Every year is another. And they seem to go faster and faster all the time.

Oh well. I wonder what it's like to be 30?

—A.L. Landers is a reporter and regular columnist for The Daily Eastern News.

Seigel's words represent teachers

Editor:

I wish more of the of the university community could have attended the Affirmative Action dinner Friday because the keynote speaker, Dr. Betty Siegel, president of Kennesaw College in Marietta, Ga., was an inspiration.

I didn't intend to cover her address, but I made a few notes which I'd like to share.

A coal miner's daughter who grew up in the poverty of Harlan County, Ky., Dr. Siegel said she learned early that there was no way you could be or do anything unless you had an education. A conclusion which inspired her career.

In addition to providing the base of knowledge which is central to our role as educators, she said, we teachers must be mentors who are watchful for those "moments in which we send off invitations to people," particularly students whose care is our special charge.

That's where affirmative action—which Dr. Siegel defined operationally as "being sensitive to our insensitivities"—comes in.

We teachers, she said, must recognize and practice several principles of affirmative action to be effective educators:

- Caring, or being sensitive to our effect upon fragile egos whose work we continually evaluate.

- Showing respect for differences (we don't have to like all students, but we owe each one "unconditional positive regard").

- Honoring success rather than focusing on failure.

- Celebrating uniqueness in the individuals we serve.

My brief notes inadequately convey the import of what Dr. Siegel had to say, but I hope they at least offer an inkling of what she thinks a teacher ought to be. I think she is cut from the same cloth as most of us at Eastern. I hope so.

Open forum discusses AIDS

By MELANIE ANDERSON
Staff writer

The Counseling Center went a step further Monday night by conducting an open forum on AIDS, in an effort to uplift community awareness of the deadly virus.

"AIDS is a disease that renders the bodies immune system. It is not the cause of death. It's the infections that kill you," said Rex Wochner, of the Champaign Community AIDS Project.

Wochner said some married and unmarried heterosexuals in our culture are bisexual or homosexual. Once exposed to the virus they are just as capable of spreading it as anyone else.

"The symptoms are similar to those of other diseases. Large swollen lymph nodes, blotches on skin, persistent fever and continuing diarrhea, said Wochner.

Joette Busey, from the Illinois Department of Public Health, said "the Illinois Legislature has given $2.3 million to fund AIDS research and $200,000 to establish an AIDS hotline.

She also added that Illinois was ranked number six in the U.S. in reported cases of the virus with more than 800 people affected.

"It is a very specific age group of white males ranging from 34-39 years of age," she said.

Dr. Richard Larson, of the University Health Service, said "we have a fiscal problem in setting up a program because the student will have to pay for the (AIDS) test."

"The student will have to go to the Business Office to pay for the test (and) come back to us with the receipt and by this time all confidentiality has been destroyed," he said.

Larson also stated that they had three cases where the test was given, but none were positive.

"It is a positively lethal disease. A direct diagnosis of AIDS is a death sentence," said Kip McGilliard, zoology instructor.

Tarble Arts Center hosts slide lecture

The Tarble Arts Center will host a slide lecture by painter/sculptor Christine O'Connor at 7 p.m. Wednesday in the main gallery.

O'Connor will speak about her work and the work of other members of the Artemesia Gallery in Chicago. She will also talk on why the women's cooperation gallery Artemesia was formed.

O'Connor has had her work, which concentrates on the depiction of Christian saints, exhibited at many galleries in the Chicago area.

Art critic Sue Taylor describes her work as, "Garishly colored, aggressively three-dimensional, they confront the viewer with an agonized passion that commands response, be it heartfelt sympathy or revulsion."

Math department provides seminar on metric system

By SHERRY BAILEY
Staff writer

Gene Dolson of the mathematics department will be presenting a metric system presentation for civil service employees and Eastern faculty members at noon Wednesday in the Union addition Charleston-Mattoon room.

"The Metric System: You Can Use It; You Are Using It," is the title of the presentation, which is part of a skills enrichment workshop series for Eastern's faculty and staff.

Dolson will give a brief history and definition of the metric system and explain some common conversions between the English and metric system.

Dolson said that the United States is the only country who is currently not using the metric system.

He said that the English system is "awkward" and the simplicity of the metric system is being used all over the world. He will elaborate on that simplicity by citing evidence with comparisons between the English and metric systems.

Mountaineer to discuss experiences in climbing

By DONELLE PARDEE
Associate activities editor

Eastern's health studies, recreation, physical education and faculty development departments are sponsoring a lecture by English mountaineer John Barry at 7 p.m. Wednesday in Phipps Lecture Hall in the Science Building.

The topic of Barry's lecture will be the mountains Gauri Sankar and K-2 in the Himalayas. Gauri Sankar is a technically dangerous peak and K-2 is the second highest mountain in the world.

Barry was a commissioned officer in the British Royal Marines and served as a commando while working with arctic warfare. He assisted with the United States Marine Corps arctic warfare training programs.

After his military service, he was appointed the director of the National Centre for Mountain Activities.

Barry's lecture is open to the public free of charge.

progressing fairly smooth despite the chill of the windy 35 degree weather, but noted that insulation from the structure was beginning to blow. "It gets on your skin and drives you nuts," Cobble said.

"I don't even know what's going to go here," the younger Cobble confided. "We are just here to tear it down."

What is going up on the property is a four-story, 24-unit apartment complex scheduled to be completed by Aug. 15. The cost of the complex is an estimated $1 million, said Garry Kling, a member of Royal Heights Apartment's Partnership. Kling is an Eastern graduate and a Phi Sigma Kappa member.

The company, which bought the property in January for an undisclosed amount of money, is comprised of three men, Kling said. The other two men besides Kling are University of Illinois graduates Rick Schmitt and Mike Henneman, Kling said in a phone interview from his Champaign home Monday.

John Dively, attorney for the Phi Sigma Epsilon Alumni Association, said the Alumni Association sold the property to the three investors on Jan. 15.

The trio had discussed the fate of house earlier and decided it would be less expensive to demolish the building. "The Phi Sig members just trashed the home after they lost their charter," Kling said. "We feel this (building new apartments) would be better for the university and the community."

Although Kling is a member of Phi Sigma Kappa he said he has not been actively involved with the Eastern group for "the last couple of years."

Kling said he was not closely following the events leading up to the loss of the fraternity's charter Nov. 4, 1986. A woman was found handcuffed to a stairwell while she was nude following a "Pimp and Whore" theme party Oct. 1 at the Phi Sigma Kappa house.

Neighbor of the fraternity Lois Williams, 1508 S. Third St., said she was sad to see the house demolished. "I hate the dust and stuff, but as far as the boys go they were not bad."

"I just always had the feeling that if I needed help they would help," Williams said.

"Once in a while they were noisy," she said. "There have been other years when they have been (worse)."

White Hen Pantry employee Dot Helland said she was also sorry to see the fraternity demolished. "I feel so sorry for the kids. You can see the tears behind their eyes, they are upset," she said after talking to several of the members who had entered the store Monday.

Commenting on the relationship between the store and the fraternity, Helland said, "It's been an experience."

Louisville, coach Crum denounce NCAA

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—The Louisville Cardinals, denied a chance to defend their national basketball title in the NCAA tournament, spurred postseason play Monday by rejecting a National Invitation Tournament bid.

Coach Denny Crum strode onto the playing floor of Crawford Gymnasium to announce the decision on the NIT and denounce the NCAA's move the day before.

"I'd like the NCAA selection committee to be held accountable for their actions. I would like a public response," Crum said.

The NIT chose Stephen F. Austin as its 32nd and last team.

Crum said Louisville was asked to participate in the NIT, but the players voted only 7-6 in favor of playing.

"The coaches felt if it was not a unanimous decision by the players, we would not be able to do our best," he said.

"A lot of the players need the academic concentration of not going to a tournament, and since we can't go to the NCAA ..."

Crum called for "an absolute dead certain formula" for NCAA tournament selection, which he said would have put Louisville ahead of several schools in the final 64.

The Metro Conference's automatic bid to the NCAA Tournament was forfeited Sunday when Memphis State, on probation, defeated Louisville 75-52 for the Metro Tournament title. No conference team received an at-large NCAA bid.

In what he called "the most exaggerated case," Crum asked the NCAA to explain for "me and the thousands of Louisville fans how they could justify selecting Middle Tennessee."

"Our schedule was almost twice as difficult as theirs. We also played, on the road, Indiana, Purdue, Syracuse, UCLA . . . most of them Top Ten teams, on the road. The most difficult team Middle Tennessee played . . . was Michigan," he said. "There's no comparison in difficulty of schedule. There's no comparison in the leagues."

"Could it possibly be because the commissioner of the OVC, Jim Delaney, is on that selection committee? Or is it just that they did not do their homework? I would like a response from them," he said.

It will be the first time in Crum's 16-year tenure at Louisville that the Cardinals have not been in a post-season tournament.

Newton to challenge No. 2-ranked Venice

By BARRY BOTTINO
Staff writer

"March Madness" is upon us and the road to Champaign's Assembly Hall goes through Charleston Tuesday as Newton (21-7) faces No. 2 rated Venice (26-2) in Class A super-sectional action.

Tip-off is at 7:30 p.m. in Lantz Gym. The winner will advance into Friday's Elite Eight of the state tournament.

Newton's Eagles earned their spot by upsetting Flora, last week's fifth-rated team, 69-61 in the Red Hill (Bridgeport) sectional.

Meanwhile, Venice defeated Staunton 51-45 for the Vandalia sectional championship.

Venice is led by 6-4 senior forward Jesse Hall (25 points per game), who has committed to play basketball at Michigan State next fall. Hall scored 35 points in last year's supersectional loss to eventual state champion Teutopolis.

Venice is also bolstered by forward Wifred Wigfall (17 ppg), center Daryl Jackson (7 ppg) and guards Vincent Harris (13 ppg) and Dale Turner (10 ppg).

On the other hand, Newton boasts four players—guard Mark Wallace, forwards Ken Bierman and Matt Hallam and center Scott Waggy—who average in double figures.

"We're going to play tooth-and-nail," Newton coach Steve Shulte said in a Monday telephone interview. "Our kids aren't intimidated at all."

Newton also wasn't intimidated against Flora, as the Eagles' full-court pressure forced 17 turnovers, but Shulte was quick to point out that he would not press Venice.

"We're not going to (press) unless we have to," Shulte said. "It would be too hard to set up after a basket. They're

Ticket information

Tickets for Tuesday's Class A Super-Sectional game between Flora and Venice will go on sale at 3 p.m. at the outside ticket office of Lantz Gym.

Tickets are $3.50 for adults, $3 for high school students and $2.50 for elementary school students.

There is no limit to the number of tickets an individual may purchase.

so quick. They would have the ball half-way down court before our kids even got up off the floor."

Venice coach Clinton Harris is looking forward to this team's return trip to Charleston.

"We're going to come in to win," Harris said. "We feel we should have won it last year, but there were some questionable calls and we missed front-ends of some one-and-ones," Harris said of last year's 75-73 supersectional loss to Teutopolis.

"We need to play good defense," Harris said. "Defense is going to win the game—but offense might have a little something to do with it too."

However, Shulte said "Venice is not that fundamentally sound on defense. We just have to take good care of the basketball."

However, Shulte's ball-handling protection will fall on the shoulders of senior guard Mark Wallace, who is a definite starter for the Venice game despite injuring his wrist against Flora. "He's our leading scorer and leading assist man and he'll definitely be in there," Shulte said.

Wallace also plays a big role in Newton's outside shooting. In the Flora victory, the Eagles shot 53.7%. However, in last year's supersectional appearance, Venice shot 69.8%.

Harper, Sterr move on to mat nationals

By MIKE NELSON
Staff writer

Two of Eastern's wrestlers achieved one of the goals of all college athletes last weekend when they advanced to the NCAA National Tournament.

Craig Sterr and Demetrius Harper placed first and second in their individual weight classes to move on to the national tournament in College Park, Maryland on March 19-21.

Harper will be making his second appearance in the tournament in two years. Last season he lost in the opening round. Harper was seeded second in the Western Regional last weekend but was defeated by No. 1 seed Joel Greenlee of Northern Iowa 9-3 in the championship match.

"Greenlee is ranked fourth in the nation," Eastern head coach Ralph McCausland said. "Demetrius was in the match until the last minute, but he realized in the match that Greenlee could have been beaten."

Harper had a 2-1 record in the tournament, which improved his season record to 30-4.

Sterr (118 lbs.) captured the championship in the regional with a 3-0 record. He entered the tournament seeded No. 1 and lived up to that seeding throughout his matches.

In the championship match Sterr defeated Northern Iowa's Dan Huffman in overtime. At the end of regulation the score was tied 2-2, but Sterr dominated in the overtime period, beating Huffman 5-0.

R-Meat finishes season atop IM Poll

By TIM LEE
Staff writer

If The Daily Eastern News recreational men's basketball poll is as good a prognosticator of the postseason tournament as it was last year, R-Meat has nothing to worry about.

R-Meat finished the season 5-0, making it the second straight season that only one team has been ranked No. 1 throughout the regular season. The Connection accomplished the feat last year.

R-Meat also hopes to follow the Connection in another way; they hope to continue their win streak through the Pro Tournament and win it all.

R-Meat took first-place in the poll again, although they were not unanimous like last week. R-Meat received five of six first-place votes and 59 of 60 total points. R-Meat will open up in the tournament against Last Chance on Wednesday.

The Pintos, 6-0, continued their steady climb to the top after they exploded into the fourth spot in the poll three weeks ago. Last week they were third and this week they took 51 points and the remaining first-place vote to finish second. The Pintos also play Wednesday against the Blue Demons.

The Supreme Court, 5-0, switched spots with the Pintos to nab third place in the poll with 49 points. The Supreme Court will play Thursday against the Record	Pts.

1. R-Meat (5)	5-0	59
2. Pintos (1)	6-0	51
3. Supreme Court	5-0	49
4. Known	6-0	42
5. Delta Chi	5-0	32
6. NOYFB	5-0	23
7. Red Raiders	5-0	19
8. Sigma Chi	4-1	12
9. Bud Lights	5-0	8
10. Sigma Pi	5-1	7

Other teams receiving votes in order: Schaefer Light, Request Line, Comrades, GDI, Prime Time Players, You Be Illin'.

Nasal Drips.

Spots four and five remained the same as last week. The Known, 6-0, received 42 points to take fourth and will play Thursday against the winner of the Gucci—Dress Socks game. Delta Chi, 5-0, took fifth with 32 points and take on the winner of You Be Illin'—Long Riders game Wednesday.

NOYFB, 5-0, jumped two spots to fill the hole left by the Request Line, who fell out of the poll after two straight defeats. NOYFB received 23 points in the poll to move into the sixth spot. NOYFB will play the winner of the Gnads—Rejects game Wednesday.

The seventh spot went to the Red Raiders, who also moved up two positions. The Red Raiders picked up 19 points and will take on the winner of the Prime Time Players—I Tappa Kegga game.

Sigma Chi, 4-1, re-entered the poll after a one-week absence as they garnered 12 points, enough to take eighth place. Sigma Chi played Monday night against the Road Warriors.

The Bud Lights, 5-0, dropped two spots to ninth with eight points. The Bud Lights take on the winner of the Cakers—Exterminators game Thursday.

The final spot in the poll goes to Sigma Pi for a second straight week. Sigma Pi, 5-1, finished with seven points and played the Griswalds Monday night.

All the teams in the poll are playing in the Level Tournament.

The only team to fall out of the poll from last week was the Request Line.

The poll is voted on by recreational supervisors and officials.
